Macon County is rich in tradition and history

OUR HISTORY

Lafayette, while the Industrial Park here is currently sustaining expansion.

In the eastern portion of the county in the town of Red Boiling Springs, three historical hotels built between 1890 and 1924 have been maintained and are still operating. It was their elegance and the numerous mineral springs and baths that made these resorts a 1920's tourist mecca.

Macon County is nestled in North Central Tennessee and rests against the Kentucky State line. Founded in 1842 and named for Nathaniel Macon, the North Carolina Statesman, Macon County is rich in tradition and history. Its county seat, Lafayette, sits only 60 miles from Nashville, TN and 150 miles from Bowling Green, KY. The Macon County Court House, built in 1883, is positioned with dignity on the square in
